

Cosmetic Rejuvenation

Innovative dentistry creates winning smiles finds itself thrust into the limelight. Armed with an arsenal of esthetic products and allied with time tested materials and principles, this branch of dentistry has transformed the lives of many patients.

Let's imagine this scenario. The person you are attempting to make a great first impression with is standing in front of you. You proceed to shake their hand. Social etiquette permits your gaze to fix on two things...the eyes and the smile. Of the two, the smile is the one which often closes the deal. Time to show your hand. What do you have? Two of a kind? Three of a kind? A set of Steinway piano keys? A bunch of corn-cobs? Or a stunning set of pearly whites?

The quest for perfect white teeth is generated largely by the media and Hollywood role models. Readily available teeth-whitening agents have even made it compulsory for the dental industry to incorporate whiter-than-white shaded dental materials in order to keep up with the public's demands. The word "cosmetic" means improving on what is natural. In terms of proportion, we know that a thin girl with cosmetic breast implants is often not a natural occurrence in nature. However, the frequency of this skewed picture has most of us accepting it as normal.

What if your bleached teeth are not white enough and you want your teeth to be as white as a toilet bowl? Those who wish to exceed the limitations of teeth whitening agents can rest assured that there is salvation in the form of porcelain veneers, crowns, and bridges. In many cases these restorations are fabricated without any metal content, using innovative all-ceramic materials only.

Enormous progress in the health sciences have permitted us to mimic nature and often exceed its limitations.

Welcome to a whole new world of possibilities!
